 I was lucky, the young man I was tweeting about, the one you see in those live streams, was not. I hope he's ok. I hope he makes it.
 I hope no one else gets hurt. If that does happen, I hope there are EMTs nearby and ready.
 Signing off, back to work tomorrow.

 I was leaning against a building trying to gather myself when folks starting smashing windows.
 Important context: That seemed to happen as the situation escalated, the crowd's anger rose as rubber bullets + canisters hit. It didn't happen randomly or in isolation.

 People rushed to help me and bandage my eye and face. I started to realize I wasn't seriously injured, and they helped me up when a cloud of tear gas came our way and everyone ran.

 I am OK, home, icing my eye. It's swollen. It hit my nose first which helped
 I wasn't trying to put myself at risk. I wanted to document what was happening to the young man who seemed critically injured, and the people who were trying to keep him alive.
 Then I got hit.

The Walgreens on Randolph in St Paul where I am trying to get perscription meds is abruptly closing due to looting and "riots" at a nearby Target, the manager tells me. I am the last customer they will see.

Jared got shot in the face with either a rubber bullet or a flash bang canister on Wednesday. If he hadn't gone to the clinic when he did, he might have lost his eyesight. Also, the gigantic video of his eye is really cool.

A Minneapolis police officer pointed a weapon at me at @sfreemark's heads, while we were standing on Nicollet and 32nd covering the protests. I yelled that I'm a journalist. He did not lower his weapon, so we ran. Calling it a night.

This is @RyanFaircloth, a reporter with the @StarTribune. He says he was trying to get home when police shot out his window.

He is bleeding but seems ok.

Hey folks, took a tracer found to the face (I think, given my backpack) and am headed into surgery to see if we can save my left eye

Am wisely not gonna be on Twitter while I'm on morphine

Stay safe folks

an update: I am permanently blind in my left eye, and the docs absolutely refuse to let me go back to work for they say six weeks. I'm definitely not allowed to be near smoke or gas.

Usually if I had to stay home I'd spend a lot of time amplifying folk but reading hurts today

I hat we think happened is I took a rubber bullet to the face. It exploded my eyeball, which has now been patched back together but who knows if it'll need more surgery. My vision is gone no matter what it winds up looking like scar wise
